

Must-have Items to Keep in your Vehicle this Winter!

As the weather turns colder around the country, it's a good time to review what you have in your vehicle for your winter adventures, especially if you live in a Northern state.

Whether you're going hunting, taking a cross-country skiing trip, or just embarking on a hike deep in the woods, it's important to be able to get home if you have vehicle trouble or if the weather quickly turns nasty.

With this in mind, the gohunt.com website offers a list of 11 must-haves for your peace of mind, ranging from more obvious items, like tire chains and jumper cables, to things you might not have thought about, like a battery jump starter box and a tool bag with an assortment of wrenches.

As you start planning your next outdoor adventure, it's a good time to think about getting a home base of your own. The recreational real estate experts in PotlatchDeltic's Preferred Broker Network are well-versed in finding you a property that can be used for anything from a hunting camp to a well-appointed cabin.
